POETRY.

From Montgomery's Poems.

THE GRAVE.

There is a calm for those who weep,
A rest for weary pilgrims found;
They softly lie, and sweetly sleep,
Low in the ground.

The storm that wrecks the winter sky,
No more disturbs their deep repose
Than summer evening's latest sigh
That shuts the rose.

I long to lay this painful head,
And aching heart beneath the soil,
To slumber in that dreamless bed
From all my toil.

For Misery stole me at my birth,
And cast me helpless on the wild;
I perish—O my mother Earth!
Take home thy child.

On thy dear lap these limbs recline,
Shall gently moulder into thee;
Nor leave one wretched trace behind,
Resembling me.

Hark!—a strange voice affrights my ear;
My pulse—my brain runs wild—I rave;
—Ah! who art thou whose voice I hear?
—I am the GRAVE.

"The GRAVE, that never spake before,
Hath found at last a tongue to chide;
O listen!—I will speak no more;
Be silent, Pride!

"Art thou a wretch of hope forlorn,
The victim of consuming care?
Is thy distracted conscience torn
By fell despair?

"Do foul misdeeds of former times
Wring with remorse thy guilty breast?
And Ghosts of unforgiven crimes Murder thy rest?

"Lash'd by the furies of the mind,
From wrath and vengeance would'st thou flee,
Ah! think not, hope not, Fool! to find A friend in me.

"By all the terrors of the tomb,
Beyond the powers of tongue to tell;
By the dread secrets of my womb!
By Death and Hell!

"I charge thee live!—Repent and pray;
In dust thy infamy deplore;
There yet is mercy!—Go thy way,
And sin no more."

"Art thou a Mourner?—Hast thou known
The joy of innocent delights?
Endearing days forever flown
And tranquil nights?

"O live!—and deeply cherish still
The sweet remembrance of the past;
Rely on Heaven's unchanging will
For peace at last.

"Art thou a Wanderer?—Hast thou seen Overwhelming tempests round thy bark?
A shipwreck'd sufferer hath thou been,
Misfortune's mark?

"Though long of winds and waves the sport,
Condemn'd in wretchedness to roam,
Live!—thou shalt reach a sheltering port,

A quiet home.

"To Friendship didst thou trust thy fate,
And was thy friend a deadly foe,
Who stole into thy breast to aim
A surer blow.

"Live!—and repine not o'er his loss,
A loss unworthy to be told;
Thou hast mistaken a sordid cross
For friendship's gold.

"Go, seek that treasure, seldom found,
Of power the fiercest griefs to calm,
And sooth the bosom's deepest wound
With heavenly balm.

"—In Woman hast thou plac'd thy bliss,
And did the Fair One faithless prove?
Hath she betrayed thee with a kiss,
And sold thy love?

"Live!—'twas a false bewildering fire;
Too often love's insidious dart
Thrills the fond soul with sweet desire,
But kills the heart.

"A nobler flame shall warm thy breast;
A brighter maiden's virtuous charms!
Blest shalt thou be, supremely blest,
In beauty's arms.

"—Whate'er thy lot—whoe'er thou be;
Confess thy folly, kiss the rod,
And in thy chastening sorrows see
The hand of God.

"A bruised reed he will not break,
Afflictions all his children feel;
He wounds them for his mercy's sake,
He wounds to heal.

"Humbled beneath his mighty hand,
Prostrate, his Providence adore;
'Tis done!—arise! he bids thee stand;
To fall no more.

"Now, Traveller in the vale of tears,
To realms of everlasting light,
Through time's dark wilderness of years,
Pursue thy flight.

"There is a calm for those who weep,
A rest for weary pilgrims found;
And while the mouldering ashes sleep,
Low in the ground,

"The Soul of origin divine,
God's glorious image freed from clay,
In heaven's eternal sphere shall shine,
A star of day!

"The Sun is but a spark of fire,
A transient meteor in the sky,
The Soul, immortal as its sire,
"Shall never die!"

CASE OF THE ROMP.

About nine months ago, the case of the ROMP, or SANTAFERINO came before the public. It will be borne in recollection that in consequence of some tumults among her crew, certain suspicions about her character were excited, and she was taken possession of by the Collector of York. The case of the vessel and her crew were transferred to this city, under the jurisdiction of the Judge of the U. S. Court for this district. An order of court was made for the sale of the vessel, tackle, &c.—and the proceeds of that sale remained to be disposed of. Judge Tucker, judge of the District Court, at its present term, has proceeded to enter up a decree in the case—the proceedings are as follows:

United States' Court, for the Virginia District, April 14, 1817.

IN ADMIRALTY.

The U. S. of America, Libellants,

AGAINST

The schooner Romp, her tackle, apparel, guns, military equipage, accoutrements, & stores, of all kinds, on board of her,

And the same, Libellants,

AGAINST

The Same

The attorney for the United States, pursuant to leave given on Saturday last, amended the Libel in the second case, by inserting in each of the three first counts thereof, the following words:—"The service of a foreign state, to wit: the state called the Patriot state of Buenos Ayres for the purpose of"—Thereupon came the Attorney for the United States; and it appearing that the order of publication heretofore made in these causes hath been duly executed, and no person appearing to shew cause against the forfeiture of the said schooner, the court doth pronounce, adjudge & decree as follows—

1. That the schooner Romp, of Wilmington, in the state of Delaware, against which two Libels have been preferred by the attorney for the U. States, in their behalf was an American built vessel, and was at the commencement of her late voyage, the sole property of a certain Thomas Taylor, a citizen of the United States, and was commanded by a certain Squire Fish, a citizen of the U. S. and navigated under his command by divers citizens of the U. States, & others; that the said schooner was fitted out, armed, and equipped at the port of Baltimore, in the state of Maryland, one of the U. States of America, by the said Thomas Taylor, a citizen of the United States, as aforesaid, then being her sole owner, for the purpose, and with the intent that the said schooner Romp should be employed in cruising and committing hostilities upon the subjects of the King of Spain, a foreign prince, with whom the U. States were then & still are at peace, and their property, as charged and alleged in the said Libels, respectively.

2. That the said schooner Romp, having been so fitted out, armed, equipped and furnished by the agency of the said Thomas Taylor, a citizen of the United States as aforesaid, then being her sole owner, and others, his agents and confederates, did proceed from the port of Baltimore aforesaid, on or about the 11th day of April, 1816, with a clearance for the port of Buenos Ayres, in South America, but instead of proceeding to the said port of Buenos Ayres, according to her clearance, did stop at or near a place called North Point, on the river Patuxent, near the mouth of the said river in the state of Maryland aforesaid, and there received on board, between 40 and 50 other mariners, in addition to her crew, as mentioned in her said clearance, which additional mariners were procured by the command, authority and agency of the said Thomas Taylor, then being her sole owner; and then sailed under his said Thomas Taylor's instructions, not for the port of Buenos Ayres in South America, according to her clearance, but for the western coast of Europe, Africa and the Canary Islands, off which coasts, upon high seas, she did under the instructions and orders of the said Thomas Taylor, her sole owner, and under the command and orders of the said Squire Fish, a citizen of the United States, then being captain or master of the said schooner Romp, under the appointment and authority of the said Thomas Taylor, then being her sole owner, cruise and commit hostilities on divers persons, subjects of the King of Spain, whose names are unknown to this court, and their property; and the captain or master of the said schooner and the crew of the said schooner Romp by his orders and command, did more-over assault, board and plunder by force of arms, and upon the high seas, divers ships and vessels belonging to the subjects of the said King of Spain, whose names are also unknown to this court; and did moreover take possession of the same, and of divers goods and sums of money, in gold and silver, found on board the same to a great amount and value, as charged in the said Libels respectively.

3. That the several acts and proceedings so charged in the said Libels respectively, to the entire satisfaction of the court, to have been committed on the high seas, on board the said schooner Romp, by the captain and crew, of the said schooner Romp, were premeditated and deliberate acts of piracy and robbery on the high seas, committed upon the subjects of the king of Spain, and their property, with whom the United States then were, and still are in a state of peace; contrary to the first article of the treaty of friendship, limits and navigation between the U. S. and the king of Spain, and contrary to the law of nations; and that the said schooner Romp, with her tackle, apparel, furniture, guns, ammunition, provisions, stores and equipments of every kind, together with her cargo (if any there were on board) excepting only such goods, wares, merchandize and money, as were piratically plundered and taken from the subjects of the said king of Spain, or others with whom the U. S. then were at peace, upon the high seas, did thereby become forfeited to the U. States, and they are hereby declared by this court to be forfeited to the U. States, accordingly.

4. And it is further ordered & decreed That out of the monies deposited in the bank of Virginia, by order of this court, or remaining in the hands of the Marshal of this District, arising from the sales of the said schooner Romp, her tackle, apparel, furniture, guns, ammunition, provisions, stores and equipments of every kind, or arising from the sales of her cargo (if any there were on board) except, as before excepted, all and singular the necessary charges and expenses of seizing, securing, removing, preserving, selling and disposing of the said schooner Romp, with her tackle, apparel and furniture, &c. together with the charges, expenses and fees of prosecution of the same in this court, be first paid and discharged by the marshal of this district; and that the said marshal be allowed a commission of 2 and a half per cent, on the first 500 dollars, and one and one quarter per cent, upon the excess, upon all sales, over and above his necessary charges and expenses, above mentioned; and that an account of the same be returned to this court. And that out of the surplus money arising from such sales, after payment of the charges, expenses and marshal's fees, as herein before directed, there be allowed and paid to Thomas Nelson, esq. collector of the district of York, by whom the seizure of the said schooner Romp was made, or ordered to be made, the sum of 50 per cent, upon such surplus; and that the balance of the said surplus arising from the sales, &c. as aforesaid, except as before excepted, be paid in the Branch bank of the U. S. in the city of Richmond, for the use of the U. S.

5. And it is further ordered & decreed That a separate account of the proceeds of the sale of certain articles of merchandize, found on board the said schooner Romp, and plundered and taken on the high seas from on board divers ships & vessels, belonging to the subjects of the king of Spain with whom the U. States then were, and still are at peace, whose names are unknown to this court, be rendered to this court by the marshal of the district, by whom such sales were made, and that a reasonable allowance be made to the said marshal for his trouble and expense in preserving or removing the said articles, in order to their safe keeping and sale; and that out of the net proceeds of the same, he be allowed a commission of two and a half per cent, on the first 500 hundred dollars, and one and one quarter per cent, on the excess, if any, on the amount of the sales, of such articles; and that out of the surplus thereafter remaining, there be paid to Thomas Nelson, esq. collector of the district of York, by whom the seizure of the same was made, or ordered to be made, the sum of 5 per cent, upon such surplus. And that the balance of the said surplus, be deposited in the Branch bank of the U. S. in the city of Richmond, for the benefit of such person or persons as may claim and prove their right to the same, as having been robbed and plundered of such articles on the high seas by the captain or master and crew of the said schooner Romp, within a year and a day from the date of this decree. And if no such claim be then, or before filed and exhibited to this court, that the said surplus of the sales of the said articles, be paid into the treasury of the U. S. for account of the U. States, for the benefit of such person or persons, as the said articles respectively belonged to, at the time they were taken and plundered on the high seas, by the captain or master and crew of the said schooner Romp.

6. And it is further ordered and decreed, That a list and description of the said articles, with the prices for which they were sold, be published, together with a copy of so much of this decree as relates to the same, 6 weeks successively, in one of the newspapers printed in Richmond, & Norfolk, and in the National Gazette printed at Washington, for the information of those whom it may concern; the expense of which shall be paid out of the proceeds of sale, of the said articles.

From this decree Thomas Taylor, by John Wickham esq. his proctor, prayed to be allowed an appeal, without security, which is refused by the court.

Tuesday, April 15th, 1817.

Thomas Taylor, by John Wickham, esq. his proctor, prayed an appeal from the decree pronounced in these causes on yesterday, which is allowed, upon such security being given as the attorney for the U. States, or the clerk of this court shall approve, on or before the first day of May next, in the sum of five hundred dollars.

In the Federal Court for this district on Monday last, Judge Tucker pronounced the schooner Romp a pirate, and declared the vessel, tackle, &c. forfeited to the U. S. Mr. Wickham in behalf of the former owner, T. Taylor of Baltimore, was allowed an appeal, $500 being given as security.

French Expedition to St. Domingo.

Amongst the other circumstances which lessen not only our knowledge but even our curiosity with respect to the West Indies Island, there is something we should think more extraordinary than usual attaching to the Island of St. Domingo. Within the memory even of the youngest of our readers, this Island absolutely the largest of the whole West Indies, has been the scene of the most horrible events, and which have terminated in a catastrophe no less singular than splendid. A black empire has risen in the tropics. There is one region in the world, in which the blacks have proved that colour is but a new mode of the body, but that the distinction does not reach the mind. Yet in despite of circumstances thus extraordinary, there are a few persons amongst us who will not be surprised to be informed, that St. Domingo does not yield in magnitude to England itself, and that all the trades, manufactures, and almost the arts of Europe, exist in almost an equal degree in Hayti & in France.

At the period of the French Revolution, a section of the Jacobins, chiefly members of the French Academy, formed themselves in a club, assuming the name of Les Amis des Noirs. The ostensible object of the club caused some respectable men to associate themselves to its members, and as good men are never suspicious men, and are in fact the natural materials upon which knaves work, these men became the instruments of their Jacobin confederates, and the club itself, under the authority of their name, became in favor both with the King and people. Their first operation was to distribute the declaration of the rights of man amongst the negroes of St. Domingo. Their second was to procure a decree for their general and immediate emancipation. The blacks now rose generally against their masters. A civil war instantly commenced, a war of such horrors and atrocities as no European annals can parallel. Neither party gave any quarter. The prisoners on both sides were even in the mildest mode, hung by hundreds at the time, on the trees, but the more frequent course was to impale them alive. In many instances they were burned alive.

When Bonaparte became emperor of France, the inhabitants of St. Domingo, mutually weakened by a war of this kind, made an offer of submission to the French government, upon the condition that the emperor should recognize the freedom of the blacks and people of colour and should admit of such a modification of the colonial administration as should secure the freedom and equality of the one with the other. Bonaparte, who never scrupled at any means to compass his ends and with whom deceit and trick were the prudence of government, readily acceded to these terms, and in the period of the Peace of Amiens, sent out an expedition under his brother in law to possess itself of the colony. The chiefs of colour, & amongst them Toussaint L'Ouverture, received the fleet according to the terms agreed; they went abroad and were in the instant made prisoners & sent to France. The whole population of the blacks and people of colour instantly took arms, another war began and the former excesses were repeated. The conclusion was, that the French expedition entirely failed and the Empire of Hayti was established.

Such was the state of the things at the time when the Bourbons returned to the throne of France. Christophe, the black chief, in mimicry of the Emperor Napoleon had established himself upon the throne of Hayti, had created a new nobility—promulgated a code of laws and government. His title and government was endured indeed, only not acknowledged, by several trading nations, and in a long interval of those campaigns which had occupied the whole attention of Napoleon in Europe. In a word we question whether Christophe is less firmly established in St. Domingo, than was Napoleon himself in France.

Under these circumstances, it is truly amazing to us what could lead to the present attempt of France to recover this lost Island. In our own humble opinion, all the power of Europe would not be sufficient totally to subdue the blacks and people of color of St. Domingo. They have two circumstances in their favor which render them invincible. In the first place a climate which is pregnant with fever, plague and sudden death to Europeans, but which to negroes is the element in which they delight and thrive; and secondly the mountainous nature of the country covered moreover in the interior with woods and jungles. If all the power of France was unequal to accomplish this enterprise whilst the force of the Haytiens was only a disorderly multitude, what can be expected now that they are united in a regular government; now that the active banditti are all regularly armed and disciplined, and that in an established revenue and a due system of commissaries they find no want of pay and provisions. We cannot indulge an expectation of success—indeed we almost doubt whether morally speaking we ought to wish this expedition to succeed. If it were intended to re-establish slavery, certainly not. No matter what was the origin; the freedom, the natural rights of the blacks and people of color are now established, and it is the duty of France to respect their liberties. They had no right at first to enslave them, and still less right have they to reduce them back to the same servitude. As respects the recovery of the soil and dominion of the colony, the case is different; and perhaps as respects our interest as Englishmen, our views of policy should be different. St. Domingo, as a French colony, would certainly be less menacing to Jamaica and the other West India Islands than Hayti as an example of a black government—a nation of slaves who have recovered their liberties.

From the Albany Gazette.

"I thought 't would be so."—No people in the union have been more reviled and abused by the Democratic party, than the people of Connecticut. Every since the commencement of Adams' administration, they have been severally and collectively denounced by the democratic editors, as traitors, Tories, swindlers, slaves, priest-ridden bigots, blue lights, together with the whole catalogue of such like pretty names to be found in the democratic vocabulary. But since Mr. Wolcott, the democratic candidate, is elected governor, the tone of these gentry is entirely changed. No state in the union is more respectable than this same Connecticut—no people more enlightened, virtuous, patriotic, or democratic, than the inhabitants of Connecticut. One democratic paper, now before us, concludes an article announcing Wolcott's election as follows:—"We congratulate republicans throughout the union, on the prospect of the permanency of republicanism in the government of a state, the population, manners, and habits of which we have always known to be as democratic as those of any in the union."

Now, while upon this subject, and since we think of it, we should like to know, and we would thank the editor of the Mercury to inform us, whether Oliver Wolcott, the new democratic governor, did actually embezzle the public cash, when an officer of the general government, or used it in burning one of the public offices?

The following article, from the Sag-that gov. Sherbrooke was mistaken in supposing that there were no Americans in captivity by the Indians in the neighborhood of Quebec:

"The schooner Lydia, Johnson, from Quebec for New York, having sprung a leak at sea, was run on shore in long Island Sound, near a place called the Old Man, on Tuesday morning last. Came passengers in the Lydia, Benjamin Powell, John Brown, Elizabeth Smith and Sarah Roberts, all of whom have been pri orers to the Indians; by whom Mr.
P's wife and five children were murdered. Mr. P. after having been cut and mangled in a most shocking and barbarous manner, was left on the floor of his own house for dead; but fortunately some of the Indians returned in a few days, & finding him alive, took him, bound up his wounds, and, by the aid of an Indian Doctor, cured him. Mr. P. has lost the use of his right arm, by a cut, with the tom-hawk in the shoulder. Mr. P. states that he and three others were sold to a Mr.
Randal McDonald, an Indian trader, for five gallons of rum. Mr. Smith and Roberts had both their husbands and several children murdered by the savages. Mr.
P. left this place on Wednesday last for New London, and from thence to Providence, [R. I.] the place of his nativity.
The other passengers in the schooner have gone to New York."

VERY LATE NEWS.

By the very fast sailing ship Comet
capt Center, in 36 days from Havre, the editors of the New-York Gazette have received Paris papers to 10th March, containing London dates to the 5th. They give from these papers several interesting items.

The Habeas Corpus Act has been suspended in England.

The Duke of Orleans had arrived in France from England.

Bread stuffs had fallen a little in France. Cotton was dull at the former prices.

The French papers notice the project of our Grand Canal.

Lord Castlereagh had been indisposed, but was recovering.

The ports in England are open for six months, for the importation of peas and beans, free of duty.

The bill against the seditious as-semblies, had its second reading in the House of Commons on the 3d March; and bills have passed relative to the seduction of the soldiery, and concerning treason.

On the 6th of March, 3 per cent consols were 69 3-8 reduced, 69 5-8.

Immense sums were bet that 3 per cents would not be at 70 on the 1st of March; but these bets had all been lost, as they that morning opened at 68, and at noon rose to 71.

On the 4th of March, the House of Commons received an extraordinary number of petitions for Parliamentary reform. They contained nearly a million signatures.

The chief part of the petitions were presented by Sir Francis Baring.

An order of the prince regent in Council, permits the importation of all foreign merchandise into the Isle of France, excepting cotton and woolen goods, and manufactures of iron and steel. Foreign goods are to pay a duty of two per cent above those imported from England.

The Customs produced for the month expiring on the 5th of February 68841 sterling above that of the same month last year, but was 60, 5751 sterling below that of 1815.

The expense of the British army in France for one year is estimated at ten millions, thirty thousand, six hundred and three pounds sterling.

The weather had been uncommonly mild in Europe. The Gazette de Lausanne, of the 1st of March, mentions that the spring was so far favorable, Agriculture and Gardening were already commenced, and that intelligent Agriculturists predicted an abundant year.

The question of Parliamentary reform in England seems to engross
the British papers.

The Dutchess of Berri was sick.
The Paris papers contain several bulletins from the physicians and ac-couchers.

The Archduchess Leopoldine was to embark for Brazil, the last of May or 1st of June.

CORRECTIONS.—Not being present at the trial of Roget, which was reported in Wednesday's paper, I could only obtain the facts from others; and though I took great pains to be correct and precise, yet I find that a few errors escaped me—some of a more trivial, others of a more material nature. For an instance, the fraud is represented to have been committed at Havre de Grasse, when it should have been at Paris, where the boxes being stamped, secured them from inspection at Havre. Second it is stated that "in the course of the trial facts came out that induced strong suspicions that the defendants and some others had been engaged in similar frauds, particularly in sinking the brig Mary some years ago." Here is an error in the name of the vessel alluded to, it should have been the brig Amiable-Mary-Ann; but I am informed, that the witness who testified respecting the Mary-Ann, a Mr. Du Rousseau, testified only that D & B, named in the indictment with Roget were concerned in that nefarious transaction, but did not go so far as to implicate him. N. York Evening Post.

The Paradise of Coquettes,

A poem, in nine Parts.

A second edition of this elegant Poem is just published and for sale by the Subscribers.

The character of this Poem is thus given by the Quarterly and Edinburgh Reviewers:—

The Paradise of Coquettes;

The character in which the poet professes to speak, is that of the POET OF WOMAN. He is supposed to be addressing woman, and woman only, and addressing her, on adventures of which she is the heroine, and on charms and graces, which it is the whole history of her beauty to have exercised with failure or success.

His incontestable merits, and the assiduous care which he has bestowed upon the poem, deserve the warmest praise.

Quarterly Review, Oct. 1814.

We have here a little volume which may be fairly regarded as a prodigy in this age of quarto ballads, romances, heroics, and sentimental simplicity. It is by far the best and most brilliant imitation of Pope, that has appeared since the time of that great writer; with all his point, polish, and nicely balanced versification, as well as his sarcasm and witty malice. He is always at home—always lively and entertaining.

His satire is polished and yet pungent. His versification, in particular, is almost invariably flowing & harmonious.

Edinburgh Review, Feb. 1815.

"A vein of polite irony runs through the 'Paradise of Coquettes' which was familiar to the writers of the age of Anne and George the First, but has been discarded in making other modern improvements, by our contemporaries."
